

Shivaram K R

Founder, Director, Curl Analytics

Shivaram K R is Founder, Director at Curl Analytics. He has a bachelors degree in E&C from RVCE and Masters degree in Control and Automation from IIT Delhi. He has ten plus years experience in various investment banking firms such as Bank of America, Edelweiss Securities, and Societe Generale where he primarily worked as a quantitative researcher and trader. He has published various papers on machine learning and time series modeling techniques in financial domain. He was AVP and head of quantitative research in Societe Generale, Bangalore before starting Curl Analytics.

At Curl Analytics, Shivaram works on machine learning, deep learning, and IoT. He is working on CNN for image recognition, computational techniques in genomics and reinforcement learning for financial time series prediction. He gets his hands dirty by building the models, calibrating them and even building the production code. He mentors employees, collaborates with the researchers, builds customer relations and does marketing. He is a futurist.

Interests: IoT, machine learning, robotics, blockchain reading Sci-Fi novels etc.